Wheat, Old Corn, and Maryland Tobacco,

PURCHASED BY
Oct 4 LAWRASON & FOWLE.

Mr. Editor,

KNOWING that there is a number of the most worthless of society, who make it a business to spread evil reports respecting the solvency of banks in the different parts of the United States, for the purpose of depreciating and purchasing their paper. I feel it is my duty to give a list of the Banks of the District of Columbia, that it may be made known to all persons in every part of the Union, that the said Banks do pay specie for their notes, on demand, and that they are justly entitled to the highest credit and standing, and that they are opposed to a suspension of specie payments, and will be the last in the country that will agree to such a measure. This communication is made to prevent imposition, and to inform all persons who may have the paper of those banks, in any part of the Union, that they may hold it as so much specie. Persons emigrating and travelling north, south or west, would do well by taking the notes of those banks, as they will always find them equal to specie, and often to command a premium of 5 to 10 per cent, for remittances to Baltimore, Philadelphia & New-York. To my numerous acquaintances (trading men,) and the community, I pledge myself for the foregoing.

The following are the banks of this district that pay specie for their notes on demand, viz:
The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown,
Central Bank of Georgetown & Washington,
Union Bank of Georgetown,
Bank of Columbia,
Bank of the Metropolis,
Patriotic Bank of Washington,
Bank of Washington,
Bank of Alexandria,
Union Bank of Alexandria,
Farmers' Bank of Alexandria,
Bank of Potomac,
Branch Bank of the United States at Washington.

I hold myself responsible for the foregoing declaration to the public. Done at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown, this 26th day of May, 1819.

A NARRATIVE

Of the sufferings and escape of capt. JOSEPH GERRISH.

Many of our readers may recollect, says the Newburyport Herald, that capt Gerrish, commander of the brig Retrieve, of this port, was captured by the savage natives of Java, when passing over land from Batavia to Samarang, in 1818. The following is an extract from one of his letters, which has just come to hand, detailing the particulars of the savage treatment he received, and of his almost miraculous escape from captivity—it is dated

"Samarang, Feb. 9, 1818.

DEAR BROTHER.

Since writing you last I have gone thro' a scene of anxiety and distress, which I had no expectation I should survive. On the 22d January, on my return from Batavia, (where I had been obliged to go over land to obtain my port clearance and certificates) I was made a prisoner by a band of natives who had ventured upon the public road—a narrative of which I relate to you—at one o'clock of said day, I discovered a band of about 100 men armed with pikes, knives, and muskets, immediately on which the driver left his seat and escaped, leaving the horses running towards the savages, and before I could gain the reins, I was within ten paces of their advance when the horses stopped and I jumped from the carriage, upon which a musket was instantly presented to my breast, but missed fire, I then seeing their intention gave myself up, begging for life—when they instantly rushed upon me and seized me by the throat and arms, and after using me in the most savage manner, they rifled my pockets; they then put a cord, made of bark, around my neck, and pinioned my arms with the same cord, drawing them so close behind my back, as to put me in the greatest agony; after which they tied my wrists across, so as to completely stop the circulation of the blood; they then (it being the heat of the day,) commenced a march with me, without any hat, often pulling the cord which led to my neck; after walking about two miles in that distressing condition they made a halt, when they set up a most horrid yell, at which there instantly appeared from the edge of the woods, a detached party bringing two naked bodies, one of which they brought by the side of me, pierced in a shocking manner—the other appeared to shew symptoms of life—they then turned into the woods on the opposite side with the dead body, with a part of the patrole with me.

The other party kept on with the other body, and carriage and horses; we had not gone far into the woods when they slightly buried the corps, naked as it was, and continued on with me; my anxiety was so great, and the agony I was in so extreme, that the sweat ran off at the bottom of my garments. After going several miles in that condition, they came to a small village by a river, over which they had to pass on a log, except those who led me, making me wade through. I asked for water to drink, but was inhumanly denied; we then came to an extensive paddy ground, where instead of going on the dykes, they made me wade through the mud about a foot deep; after crossing this extensive plain, we came to a second river over which they made me wade as before, when we came to the village where they belonged.

I was then seated on the wet ground in the stocks, where I remained until the chief came; I was then taken out, placed on a bench, and 15 men called who folding their hands, kneeled and kissed his feet. After which they were brought before me, and their knives examined, in which place I supposed I was to be executed, but hearing the chief say Hollander, I immediately said American, from which he appeared to look earnestly at me, and I as earnestly at him, repeating the word American; when after a few moments, he ordered the knives to be returned, and commanded me to be taken off the bench and put into a shed, it raining violently.

After I was seated he wished to ascertain where I was from, where going, and to what country I belonged; all which I gave him to understand. I then shewed him my hands and neck how they were swollen, and what misery I was in; when he ordered me again to be searched and finding nothing, commanded the cords to be taken off, having been in that painful situation seven hours. He then gave me some rice, and ordered me to be conducted to a place prepared in which to remain [illegible] night, where I was closely after several examinations he brought most of my papers and clothes which he permitted me to use, by having one of his men observe me shift, and see that nothing was misplaced. He likewise gave me rice enough to eat; though my place was very wet and uncomfortable. I then from day to day endeavored to be permitted to give some information of myself, but he denied me that privilege, positively declaring I should never give any information where I was, and that I should never be released. I then endeavored a ransom but without effect. From that moment I was determined to make my escape, or lose my life in the attempt.

For several nights I kept wakeful, but was so closely watched that there was no possibility of escape—when on the ninth night after my capture I obtained some information through a Chinese, that the Government were about sending a force against them. They then had their spies out every day, and the Chinese, being treacherous to them, gave me every information respecting the Dutch troops, how they advanced, and what position they were in from day to day. I then determined to wait the event of the troops coming and endeavor to make the event, of an engagement, my opportunity.—Accordingly keeping myself in constant readiness I was as it were upon the tenter books of Death for 24 hours—when on the morning of the 4th of Feb. about day-light, I heard muskets.—The whole village was instantly alarmed, the women running in all directions, and the men marching to meet the enemy, except three armed men to take me into the woods, I then found I should have no other opportunity, I endeavoured to keep in the village as long as possible, to ascertain the event of the attack; but in vain, they being anxious began to use force, when I was obliged to go with them, and having nothing to defend myself, I was determined first to try some deception, and if unsuccessful, then to take hold of the first weapon I could find and resist them. I accordingly approaching the woods feigned faintness and fell, when they stopped to raise me, I at the same time endeavoured to get them to stay by me, that I might not be taken by their enemies—when a gun was fired which so alarmed them that they ran a few paces from me, when I instantly jumped up and ran from them. I had not gone far before I was again intercepted by one armed, and obliged to flee into a wood in an opposite direction from the Dutch troops, and being so closely pursued I was obliged to hide in a thicket where he passed me within a few yards, without discovering me. After which I was six times more chased and very closely searched after. I once lay in the water seven hours with savages searching many times within twenty paces of me when it came dark, I made another attempt but being lost and bewildered, got into the water, where it was with a great deal of difficulty I could get out, it being so extremely dark. After getting out I was again discovered in the woods by the savages, who searched until towards morning with torches, sometimes almost near enough to reach me with their spears. At about 4 o'clock in the morning they gave up the search, when I again endeavoured to find the way towards the troops, and by means of a star which appeared soon after 4 o'clock, which by placing a stick and watching it, I found which way it rose, and which way to direct my course.

At 11 o'clock the 5th I reached the troops having been 40 hours without any nourishment and without any clothes. My feet and legs as well as my body, were torn by the bushes and so exhausted, that when I reached the troops it was with difficulty I could stand. I could write much more but the recollection of my sufferings, and the anxiety of my mind on account of the derangement these events have thrown my business into that I can hardly connect my ideas.

[Thus, after undergoing the utmost hardships, and experiencing the most barbarous treatment, was Capt. Gerrish providentially rescued from captivity and death—and proceeded on his voyage to Europe. But other trials and difficulties, it seems, were reserved for this unfortunate Gentleman; for after proceeding to Holland, thence to Russia, and being on his passage home, it will be recollected his vessel was cast away in the North Sea and entirely lost, and he a second time narrowly escaped with his life.]

OUTLAWS AND PIRATES.

Lexington, (Ky.) May 19.

The citizens of the United States are now in a fair way to enjoy the benefits of the new law of nations, which was discovered by Gen. Jackson in Florida, approved by the administration, and finally ratified by the majority in the house of representatives. That law, it will be recollected, reads in the following terms, that any individual of a nation, making war against the citizens of another nation, they being at peace, forfeits his allegiance, and becomes an outlaw and a pirate." Arbuthnot and Ambrister, subjects of Great Britain, a nation with which we were at peace, in conjunction with the Seminole Indians. They were taken by General Jackson, convicted of the above crime by Indian hearsay evidence, sentenced to death and executed, and their execution approved by the American government, and strenuously defended in the famous letter of Mr. Adams to our minister in Spain, which was published to the world as a justification of the transactions in Florida. The letter of the new law was sufficient to justify the execution; but as the feelings of a humane and magnanimous people revolted at the apparently cold blooded severity of the punishment, it was further defended by the considerations, that the war with the Indians had been produced by these diabolical instigators, and that it had been, and would still be, continued chiefly by their instrumentality. Some pity might be due to the poor deluded Indians; but none could be due to these incendiaries, who kindled the flames of war, deluded the Indians to continue it, and supplied them with the means of doing so. The Spanish government at first remonstrated against their execution: but after its justification in the letter of Mr. Adams, that government appears to have entirely acquiesced in the principles and conduct of the American government, and to have made them the model of its future course in South America. The Spanish commentary on the new American law of nations, is in substance as follows, according to the late royal order of Ferdinand—"all foreigners taken with arms in their hands in the insurgent provinces of America, or convicted of supplying the rebels with the means of carrying on the contest with the mother country, are to be immediately put to death, on the ground that the continuation of this unnatural contest is chiefly to be imputed to them, and that they have no claim to the mercy which his majesty shows in many instances to the insurgents themselves, as they can never plead ignorance or seduction, which is often the case with his majesty's deluded subjects." Here we have death denounced against our own citizens for the same offences substantially with which Arbuthnot and Ambrister were charged; and the denunciation is justified on some of the same grounds, which were assumed by our administration and its official partizans. The ignorant and deluded insurgents, as well as the ignorant and deluded Indians, may have claims to mercy—but those incendiary foreigners, who aid and supply them, and are thus the principal cause of the continuance of such unnatural and barbarous war, must have no mercy shewn to them; they cannot plead ignorance and seduction; they must be immediately put to death by the military, when taken and convicted of these monstrous crimes.

What will Mr. Monroe and his secretary say to the execution of our citizens under this royal order in South America? What objection can they make to a practice of which they have set the example? What will our very patriotic congress orators say to this Spanish translation of their speeches? Do they suppose that the American people will acquiesce in such principles and practices? That they will suffer their government to commit such a gross abandonment of the rights of its citizens? Shall the tyrant of Spain be permitted to hang up, as traitors and outlaws, our fellow-citizens, our friends, our brothers, who in imitation of the noble example of La Fayette, and other foreigners in our revolution, are fighting for the glorious prize of liberty and independence in South America? No!—However the true sentiments of the American people towards the South Americans may have heretofore been disregarded by the administration, there is a point, beyond which the apathy and dereliction of their government will not be suffered to extend. The sacred rights of an American citizen must not be abandoned. But how can the present administration assert them? How can it object to an order founded on the very principles, on which it has acted, and which it has defended to the Spanish government. In this case, the president cannot act the double part which he pursued in relation to the British government—he cannot disavow to the Spanish authorities, the acts of General Jackson, which he had approved officially at home: for if we are not greatly mistaken in our recollection of the letter of Mr. Adams, he has already avowed and defended to the Spanish government, the conduct of his general in the execution of Arbuthnot and Ambrister. Submission to the tyrant of Spain, or new and shameful pretexts and inconsistencies, and perhaps even war with Spain, must now mark the course of our administration. Such are the glorious fruits of the total abandonment or violation of the constitution and laws, municipal and national, in the prosecution of the Seminole war.

In a moral point of view, Arbuthnot and Ambrister may have been the basest of the human race; they may have richly merited their fate; yet the principle avowed by the general in their execution, and the grounds on which it has been justified by others, will authorise enormities in South America, to which the people of the United States will never submit. [Reporter.

The Aurora, of Tuesday last, contains some interesting intelligence from Venezuela. The following is a summary:—

The Congress of Venezuela was in session, and various important topics were before them.

The project of a Constitution, presented by General Bolivar, had been under consideration and after a short debate postponed.

Mr. Zea, "a man of profound knowledge and enlarged political views, is the Vice President of the Executive Government, and presides in the absence of Bolivar; his Speech, at the opening of the Session is said to be worthy of the days of Greece."

Don J. G. Rosico, is the President of Congress.

"It seems the Amelia Island subject had been bro't into view in the Congress of Venezuela, and some resolutions proposed or adopted (which we are not certain) after some animated debate and deliberations:—three distinct propositions were embraced in these resolutions of which we cannot give the substance as they were hastily and orally related to us.

"The first was a declaration of the right of every people oppressed by their rulers or conquerors, or tyrants, to shake off their tyrants and assume the common right of mankind to institute a government of laws framed and accepted by the people or their representatives.

"The others relate to some affairs of Florida, &c.

It seems, however, that their plans partake in some things of the federative character; as they contemplate three great nations, to be connected by a delegated body of representatives from the three great nations, who like the Amphyctions, are to exercise no functions but those delegated to them, nor to institute any law but such as shall be previously submitted to the congresses of the three nations.

"The central nation to consist of New-Grenada, Peru, and Venezuela. The southern to consist of La-Plata, Chili and Paraguay &c. The northern nation—Mexico, Guatamala, and the Isthmus.—The great executive council of the three nations to assemble annually at the Isthmus, and to have a permanent establishment at the common expense—and for common benefit. We are promised some more ample communications on this subject."

ALEXANDRIA:
TUESDAY, JUNE 8, 1819.

Mr. SNOWDEN,

In your paper of Saturday last I observed the gleanings of some pragmatical correspondent, who, "with more of whim than grace," has selected for the entertainment of your readers an extract from the Weekly Magazine, animadverting in terms gross and indelicate upon the deportment of the ladies.—Not content, however, with sending you the extract, he must be indulged with a single paragraph by way of preface, and with an asterisk at the end of the title line, tells you it will suit the ladies of any town.

It would be impossible to peruse this flimsy attempt at wit, without being disgusted with it. If vulgarity can recommend it, it will answer the purposes of the author; if facts would substantiate it, perhaps some good consequences would attend the publication: but it is vulgar without truth, and shameful without justification; it merits, and undoubtedly receives, the utmost contempt from those it is designed to reform.

I will boldly assert, in behalf of the sex I have ventured to defend, and of which I proudly rank myself, that whatever failings may be discovered in the character of women, they dwindle into comparative insignificance when contrasted with the vices and villany of man. Your correspondent, as it would appear, with much indignation pourtrays the character of the fair sex as nothing but a tissue of vanity—wholly devoted to visiting, gossiping, and match-making. I must confess I am too much of a predestinarian myself to apprehend any such fortunate results as a report's producing so important an affair as a wedding; and with my fairy sisters I smile at his terming us gossips and tale bearers. A frightful crime, indeed, to say we have understood a lady and gentleman were to be married! But the truth is, Mr. Snowden, that almost all their stories respecting weddings originate with the men, and most frequently with young men too, who, with what they denominate "small talk," amuse, or think they amuse, the ladies with their freaks of Hymenial humors. We seldom see a young gentleman enter a room where two or three girls are laughing a leisure hour away, but what, poor awkward thing, to remedy his embarrassment, he is sure to invent some match or other, and thus by means of the dandies we contrive a match for every Tuesday and Thursday in the year. But your correspondent displays such zeal in the attack on the excellence of the female character, that he has entirely lost sight of the failings of his own sex.—What is the true description of a gentleman of the present day?—To live in idleness—to smoke segars—to kill birds—and gallant the ladies.—He simpers at the fair for improving their forms, whilst he, poor contemptible creature, "but the shadow of a shade," struts round the circle of fashion with the certainty of insuring the admiration of every company. Follow him thro' the lounge of the morning—you may perhaps see him with a novel in his hand, but sick of study he stalks to a porter house, and, peradventure, spunging upon an acquaintance, takes a glass he does not pay for, and plays back-gammon to give him an appetite for dinner:—in the afternoon, with a new dress, he waits upon the ladies, and then it is he displays all the volubility for which an exquisite is so happily characterized.—All this, however, might be excusable,—but the dandies do something more. I would willingly drop the curtain; but your correspondent has provoked me—and I am a woman. The truth must be told: Dandies, I have understood, can play cards at midnight—can drink plenty of wine—but oh more shameful still, can wear fine clothes, ☞ whilst the tailor whistles for his money, and poor Crispin has many an unsuccessful dun before he fobs value received for his sole-leather!! This is a gentleman! and can your correspondent deny the truth of the picture? As to that Weekly Magazine writer, I set him down as a malicious cur who has been wofully disappointed in the hand of some eastern lady. I would almost be sworn that Miss Taffary rejected him, and that has occasioned the trifling thing to vent his spleen in this manner. The fox thought the grapes sour because they were out of his reach.

My compliments to your correspondent, Mr. Snowden, with this simple maxim, "physician heal thyself."

SPECIE.

The bank of the United States received yesterday morning two waggon loads of specie, amounting to upwards of 120,000 dollars from the western country.

Extract from a communication in the Petersburg (Va.) Republican, June 1.

"It is the practice (I believe it is not the duty) of the banks, to collect all negociable notes, that may be deposited with them for that purpose, let them be deposited by whom they may, and regardless of the manner by which they may have been obtained; and in case of a failure to take up such notes when they become due, the drawers are disgraced, and their names thrown with ignominy out of the Banks, as undeserving countenance or credit. I do candidly conceive this course of conduct to be unjust and oppressive. Why should a man's negociable note be considered more sacred than a plain bond; and a failure to pay the former when due, be followed by the complete destruction of the character of the individual who draws it? I can see no reason in this course of proceeding; but I think I can see great injustice in it. A man's credit is every thing."

Baltimore, June 5.

The depression of commerce has produced a change in the prices of articles of domestic growth, produce and consumption, very favorable to the purchaser—Good fresh butter in the market of this city, is now currently sold at 25 cents per pound; good veal about 7 cents per pound by the quarter, and other articles in proportion.

Public Sale

ON the 9th DAY of JULY next, at 12 o'clock of that day, by virtue of a deed of trust, we will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the premises, that very valuable tract of land in Fairfax county, near Holmes's Run, and about four miles from Alexandria, generally known by the name of containing about 115 acres. This land is about one half in wood—the balance cleared, and in cultivation, with convenient buildings on it, and excellent water near them. A considerable proportion of the open land is fertile, and well calculated for timothy meadows.

The sum of $2,254 77 cts will be required to be paid in cash; for the residue a credit of twelve months will be given from the day of sale, the purchaser paying interest thereon, and giving satisfactory security for the punctual payment thereof. A conveyance will be made when the purchase money and interest is all paid up. If the terms of the sale should not be complied with by the purchaser, the premises will be immediately re-sold to the highest bidder, at the risque of the person to whom it shall have been struck off; and the same course will be repeated until an effectual sale shall have taken place.

R. I. TAYLOR,
JACOB HOFFMAN.

Public Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from Daniel McPherson and wife to the subscriber to secure to the Mechanics' Bank of Alexandria the payment of a debt due from John McPherson and Son, will be sold at public sale on the premises, on THURSDAY, the 10th day of June next, a certain tract of land, known by the name of ROUND-HILL, in the county of Fairfax, lying on both sides of the Colchester road, adjoining the lands of George Triplett, Dr. Richard Mason, and others, containing 164¼ acres, be the same more or less. This land is handsomely situated, and has lately received considerable improvements. Few farms of its size in the county, perhaps, present higher inducements to a tasteful proprietor.

The terms are one-fourth cash, and the remainder in three equal instalments at 12, 18 and 24 months, with interest from the day of sale. W. VEITCH, Trustee.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBERT HERBERT, esq. or

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

100 Dollars Reward.

IS known to have been kidnapped from a field near Germantown, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, on the 30th ult. whilst at work alone, a Free Black Man, named HENRY HUDSON, aged between 21 and 22 years, of the height of five feet five inches, very black complexion and dark eyes, has a scar under his left arm, between the wrist and elbow, occasioned by the cut of an axe.

He is by occupation a farmer, a native of Kent county, in the state of Delaware, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket, old black silk vest, corded velvet pantaloons, and a wool hat.

He is a very civil, inoffensive man, with rather a down look. There is reason to suppose that he was decoyed into a carriage, and conveyed southward.

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

The above reward will be cheerfully paid on conviction of the perpetrators of this flagrant outrage upon the rights of a freeborn citizen of the United States.

ROMULUS RIGGS,

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern. Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18
